

Privacy Policy

Confidential Information: all information, whether technical or commercial (including all specifications, drawings and designs, disclosed in writing, on disc, orally or by inspection of documents or pursuant to discussions between the parties), where the information is:

- (a) identified as confidential at the time of disclosure; or
- (b) ought reasonably to be considered confidential given the nature of the information or the circumstances of disclosure.

Each party shall protect the Confidential Information of the other party against unauthorised disclosure by using the same degree of care as it takes to preserve and safeguard its own confidential information of a similar nature, being at least a reasonable degree of care.

Confidential Information may be disclosed by the receiving party to its employees, affiliates and professional advisers, provided that the recipient is bound in writing to maintain the confidentiality of the Confidential Information received.

The obligations set out in this clause shall not apply to Confidential Information that the receiving party can demonstrate:

- (c) is or has become publicly known other than through breach of this clause; or
- (d) was in the possession of the receiving party prior to disclosure by the other party; or
- (e) was received by the receiving party from an independent third party who has full right of disclosure; or
- (f) was independently developed by the receiving party; or
- (g) was required to be disclosed by a governmental authority, provided that the party subject to such requirement to disclose gives the other party prompt written notice of the requirement.

AORI complies with the provisions of the EU Directive 2000/31/EC of the European Parliament, as it may alter from time to time in connection where the Company acts as Mere Conduit (as defined in Article 12 of the Directive) and in connection to Caching (as defined in Article 13 of the Directive).

AORI complies with the provisions of the EU Directive 95/46/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 24 October 1995 on the protection of individuals with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data as adopted by the Processing of Personal Data (Protection of Individuals) Law of 2001.

AORI collects personal information (email address, full name, mail address, phone number) when you register with AORI and will keep them for as long as you are a registered member of AORI.

AORI will be receiving and record automatically while using our Website information such as your IP address, location etc.

By accepting the terms and conditions of Agreement and proceeding with the use of our Services, the Client agrees to the processing and storage of his personal and other data in the provision of services under the Agreement.